

GOV. DURBIN REFUSES

Will Not Return Taylor and Finley to Judge Cantrell's Court.

RED HOT DENUNCIATION OF KENTUCKY JUDGE.

Indianapolis, Nov. 2.—Gov. W. T. Durbin, in a lengthy communication addressed to J. C. W. Beckham of Kentucky, refuses to grant the requisition for the extradition of ex-Gov. William S. Taylor and Charles W. Finley, who have been indicted by Kentucky courts for complicity in the murder of Gov. William Goebel. The text of Gov. Durbin's letter to the governor of Kentucky follows:

"Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 2, 1901.—Dear Sir: For the second time requisitions have been made to the governor of this commonwealth, issued by your authority asking for the extradition of William S. Taylor and Charles Finley, alleged fugitives from justice from the state of Kentucky, and at this time residing in the state of Indiana. The indictment presented charges these men with being accessories before the fact of the wilful murder of William Goebel. I respectfully decline to honor the requisition.

"The reasons given for a similar action on the part of my predecessor, the lamented ex-Gov. Mount, still obtain in a pertinent manner as a basis for this refusal, reinforced, as they are, by events that have occurred since that time which only tend to establish the conviction to those who believe in equal and exact justice under the law to all men, that the time has not yet arrived within the environments of this prosecution whereby an unprejudiced and nonpartisan hearing of a trial could be had. I choose to make use of the right and the duty as the executive of commonwealth to exercise a discretionary power of refusal to the end that the purposes of prosecution may not force these men before a court partisan to the very extreme of vindictiveness and a jury organized for conviction in its personnel and impairment.

"The reassessment of the late William Goebel was a monstrous crime, deplored, as I believe, by every citizen of Indiana and of the republic. The spirit of assassination is the twin of anarchy. If allowed to go unpunished there could be no more serious crime than that a citizen of a state, or the official representative of the commonwealth in any capacity should be foully murdered as the result of conspiracy or as individual act.

Evidence Was Perjured.

"I have given careful and conscientious consideration to the evidence produced in the case already heard of the person accused of complicity in the murder of William Goebel, so far as has been placed in my hands by the attorneys for the prosecution, and I unhesitatingly affirm that conviction based upon such a mass of self-evident perjury reflects the poisoned passions of a court and jury, and strengthens the belief that were those requisitions honored I would be only aiding the determination of the prosecution to convict these men without any reference to the law, justice or fact. I cannot cause a man from whom the presumption of innocence should never be stripped, except by legal methods, to be subjected to the rapine of political persecution. Kentucky is a commonwealth revered for its high sense of justice and honor; it has given to the jurisprudence of the country some of the ablest lawyers of the nation; it has honorable representation on the supreme bench; it is the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, the embodiment of justice, who dedicated his life to securing the rights of all men under the law.

It is a state wherein very generally justice has been signally exemplified in the practice and purposes of courts, and this honorable record only emphasizes in conspicuous comparison the odious acts which in the trial court of Judge Cantrell, has been permitted in the name of law, where the life and liberty of citizens are at stake. Can a fair trial be had for these under indictment? What was the object in appropriating one hundred thousand dollars for the conviction of the suspected murderers of William Goebel? Does not the evidence demonstrate that a portion of this sum has been paid for perjury? In the recent trial of Caleb Powers should judicial proprieties have been outraged by the refusal of Judge Cantrell to give a change of venue from his hearing? Why should a jury of twelve partisans of the late Mr. Goebel be selected to try the cause at bar?

Recalls Political Case.

"In striking contrast to the ultra partisanship of the Kentucky judge and jury, I recall an example of the profound sense of justice that characterized a case, largely political in its character, that came before the federal court in Indianapolis shortly after the war, when party spirit was at its zenith. The democratic treasurer of Jennings county was on trial. Gen. Harrison appeared for the prosecution and ex-Gov. Hendricks for the defense.

"The regular panel of jurymen was in the box. Judge Walter Q. Gresham was on the bench. Mr. Hendricks first appealed to the court for a political poll of the jury, and then for a special jury, to be composed of an equal number from the democratic and republican parties. He made a most earnest and eloquent plea that justice to his client and the political character of the case demanded that the jury should be evenly divided between the two leading political parties, and no advantage be given over his client by the insidious influences of a preponderant partisan bias in the jury. Judge Gresham, an ardent republican, very promptly granted the request, and a new jury was empaneled, as asked for by Mr. Hendricks. Compare this act of justice, based on the proposition that no political bias or advantage should enter into the jury box, with the record of the court and jury in the cases that have so far had a hearing in the trial of the alleged murderers of Mr. Goebel.

On this subject Thomas Jefferson wrote: "An officer who is entrusted by the law with the sacred duty of naming judges of life and death for his fellow-citizens, and who selects them from among his political and party friends, ought never to have in his power a second abuse of that tremendous magnitude.

Cites Court of Appeals.

"Does not the action of the court of appeals of Kentucky, in its reversal of the initial convictions in Judge Cantrell's court, emphasize the contention of the governor of this commonwealth that these men sought to be extradited cannot secure a fair and just hearing? Judge Cantrell, candidate for a United States senatorship, instructed a jury that it might convict on the testimony of one alleged accomplice if that testimony was corroborated by that of another alleged accomplice; that it might convict the defendant for the act of another man, to which the defendant had never agreed, and which was the necessary or probable consequence of anything to which the defendant had agreed. It is remarkable that the trial court compelled the defendant to answer the prosecutor's questions in relation to other crimes than the one for which he was on trial, and then, over protests, permitted the specially employed attorney for the prosecution to make an impassioned plea to the jury to hang the defendant on accusations entirely outside of the record. To such a perversion of justice I will not consent to consign any citizen of this commonwealth, be his residence temporary or permanent.

The monstrous rulings and instructions of the court, with its vicious partisanship further represented by a jury unanimously made up of Goebel democrats, is that the court would remember its obligations as a judge rather than its aspirations for a senatorship; that the rules of evidence having universal recognition in all the states of the republic would be followed in this latest trial, especially in view of the reversal of the court of appeals in the former trials. It is a deep disappointment that the utter disregard of justice which marked the previous trial was as notorious in the second trial of Powers as in the first. Consequently I can only voice my condemnation thereof by refusing to honor your requisition, which, in effect, would make me a party to the conviction and punishment of two reputable citizens of Indiana.

"When better assurances of a fair and impartial trial of Messrs. Taylor and Finley shall be given by the trial of those now in Kentucky under indictment for participating in the assassination of Mr. Goebel, and the record of the procedure shall show that an impartial judge sat on the bench

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

"The season is nigh when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the President appoints a day as the special occasion for praise and thanksgiving to God.

"This Thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good President. We mourn President McKinley because we so loved and honored him, and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people a keen anxiety for the country, and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty, which as a nation we have thus far safely trod.

"Yet, in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material and have been able to work our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us; and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips, and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which on this earth and at this time each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

"Now therefore I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving, Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations, and at their several homes and places of worship, reverently thank the giver of all good for the countless blessings of our national life.

"In witness whereof I have heretofore set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done in the city of Washington, this second day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand, nine hundred and one, and of the independence of the United States one hundred and twenty-sixth.

"By the President:

JOHN HAY, Secretary of State."

of itself sufficient cause for a refusal of your request; but, added to this, I have on file letters and protests from many representative democrats of the state, prominent in the organization of the party, and from editors of democratic newspapers, universally condemning the persecution in the Goebel trials as a travesty upon justice, and urging that no requisition be honored for Mr. Taylor and Mr. Finley until reason has resumed sway, and the good name of Kentucky, in its procedures under the law in its courts, be restored.

The Powers Trial.

"I had hoped the trial of Caleb Powers, just concluded, would demonstrate that the efforts of the prosecution were really to determine who the murderers of Mr. Goebel were in a way that would convince the people of the country of a sincere determination to this end; that the jury would be selected for its integrity rather than its partisanship; and non-partisan jurors filled the box, your requisition will be honored.

"Until the time comes that justice is meted out to those now under the jurisdiction of the courts of Kentucky, a requisition leading to such a travesty upon justice as the last trial of Caleb Powers presented will not be honored by the surrender of citizens of Indiana, by any official act of mine. Respectfully,

"WINFIELD T. DURBIN,

"Governor of Indiana.

"To His Excellency, J. C. W. Beckham, Governor of Kentucky, Frankfort, Ky.

HOPKINS COUNTY CONDITIONS.

Graphic Story of Outlawry That Has Come From Fostering Armed Union Camps.

NON-UNION MINERS'

GREAT PROVOCATION.

Views of Special Correspondent of a Leading Daily Newspaper.

Earlington Correspondence of the American: From a condition of peace and contentment and security, the section of country of which this town is the active center has become an armed camp, with anarchy seemingly upheld by governmental authority, while the ordinary protection of the law in civilized society has been replaced by a return to the first principles of self-protection on individual responsibility. An army of aliens has invaded this and two adjoining counties, and with modern guns, pistols and dynamite, has destroyed lives and property and undertaken to deny to the people the right to live and labor and pursue their own happiness in their own way. This has been done in the name of union labor, with the avowed object of "unionizing" the mines of the Western Kentucky coal fields. The anomalous and preposterous condition has continued for nearly a year. It is a condition without a parallel in the history of labor troubles. The native workmen, the miners themselves, make common cause with their employers and only ask to be let alone. More than that, they are ready, even anxious, to fight for the right to work as they please. They go to their work with pistols in their belts and guns in their hands in defense of this right. They are angry; they have been fired at time and again; their lives have been shot into; they have been dynamited; they know that they are surrounded by men who, if they could, would destroy not only their lives, but their means of living. Several hundred men, most of them armed with long-range rifles, are encamped near Nortonville and near Madisonville, the county seat. They are for the most part union miners who have been brought here to keep up the agitation, to whose numbers are added the few disaffected men who have been persuaded to leave their homes and join the union. The camps are carefully guarded in military fashion; but it has been thoroughly established that the attacks on miners, their houses and the property of the coal companies have been made by men from these camps. Consequently it is not surprising that here in Earlington, a town of 8,000 inhabitants, as well as at the mines and mining settlements, men go about with Winchester in their hands and pistols in holsters to protect their lives and property.

The Tragedy at Empire.

A few days ago a guard and a miner at Empire, fifteen miles below here, were fired upon. A deputy sheriff tried to run down the men who did the shooting, and was killed by a shot fired from the woods. A soft-nosed bullet tore away a great part of his thigh. When I visited the place a few hours later twenty-five or thirty men received me, nearly every one of them carrying a rifle or a pistol or both. Most of them were negro miners, among them being the man who early in the morning had lain behind an embankment while the long 38-30 bullets plowed furrows in the ground by him or sang over his body. Naturally he hasn't great regard for the union, and would have been a valuable member of any sheriff's posse organized to rid the county of the marauders. So, likewise, would have been the men of the same mine who were fired at a week or ten days ago, or those who were in the tippie at Providence when that was shot into, or the occupants of the house through which sixteen rifle balls were shot one night earlier in the trouble.

The great wonder is that, with all this shooting, more persons have not been killed and wounded. True, the shooting is chiefly at night, or, if in the day time, at long range from the brush and woods; but it is evident that your union miner is a mighty poor shot. It is also remarkable that the display of force on both sides, the shooting almost nightly, and the use of dynamite, the list of casualties is not greater. As a matter of fact only three men have been killed since the war commenced, and only eight or ten more have been wounded. But at any moment there may be an outbreak that will cost many lives and ruin much property.

State of Terror.

Meanwhile a whole district lives in a state of terror, and the business of mining the coal is conducted at a greatly increased expense for the maintenance of guards, the building of log forts at the mine tipples, the employment of secret service men, and the purchase of arms and ammunition, not to mention the enormous waste incurred in supporting in idleness for months on a stretch the 400 or 500 men who, with their families, are living on the scanty dole of the United Mine Workers' Association. These men are in the camps or are living in houses near the mines. It is chiefly from those in the camps that the trouble has come, and that the danger is threatened. The bringing together of from 200 to 300 armed men in one camp is not a peaceful indication, though the leaders of the mob declare that they are proceeding peaceably under the law and know nothing of any acts of violence. These leaders and organizers, by the way, constitute another element of waste, when the economy of the situation is considered. They have official headquarters at Madisonville, where a large staff is maintained in a style and with a degree of comfort that must be highly satisfactory to a man accustomed to painfully dig his living out of the coal mines. It might be called a small town. It is overgrown with the grass and occasionally potting at some unwary miner.

Militia in Sympathy.

And, then, there is the expense to the counties and the state. The county must bear the expense of the guards while the operators ask for their appointment. The state ordered out the militia once, and might have saved itself the trouble, as the soldiers were little better than a bodyguard for the union agitators. The remarkable thing is that the whole ugly business could be stopped in 48 hours if the laws were enforced. Webster county officials notified the campers to leave or go to jail, and they promptly moved out. It was known in advance that Christian county would not tolerate them, and there has been no attempt to organize a camp there. But Hopkins county seems to foster these law-breakers, though one camp is within a mile and a half of Madisonville, the county seat, and the town itself was fired into by men from the camp. Adj. Gen. Murray has recently made a second visit to the county and reports no need of state troops. There is none. A sheriff's posse of 100 men could quickly stop the trouble. But in the absence of official action the situation is tense and the danger acute.

The story of how the present deplorable conditions arose will be told in subsequent letters. C. M. H.

YESTERDAY'S ELECTIONS.

Tammany Hall Goes Down Before the Invincible Forces of the Fusion Ticket.

CITY, COUNTY AND STATE GO REPUBLICAN

Ohio Republicans Surprise Themselves, and are Asking "What Did It?"—Down Rolls Up Her Biggest Republican Majority—The Total Results in Other States Voting.

New York, Nov. 6.—Seth Low, for mayor president of Columbia University and four years ago the citizens' union candidate for the first mayor of Greater New York, was elected, yesterday, the second mayor of Greater New York by a plurality anywhere from 30,000 to 40,000, defeating Edward M. Shepard, of Brooklyn, the democratic nominee. The campaign was an exciting one, and the vote though somewhat less than in the presidential election a year ago, was the largest ever polled in a municipal contest in this country.

In addition to the canvass for mayor, public interest largely centered in the nomination by the fusionists of William Travers Jerome, for district attorney, and Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, by the democrats, for justice of the supreme court, who were voted for only in the territory contained in New York county. Returns received up to 11 p. m. indicated that Jerome had been elected by a comfortable plurality and that Mayor Van Wyck had been defeated, the latter running behind his ticket from 15,000 to 20,000.

Returns also indicate the complete triumph here of the Greater New York fusion ticket, Charles Vincent Fernald, the nominee of the citizens' union and the republicans for president of the board of aldermen, defeating George H. Van Hoesen, the democratic nominee.

In the various municipal contests reported from up the state the most interesting elections noted were those of Albany, Troy, Rochester, Syracuse and Buffalo. The city of Albany was won by the republicans, ex-Senator David R. Hill taking no active part in the local canvass.

The election in Troy was a lively one, a number of arrests for illegal voting being made. The United States Senator Murphy headed the fight for the candidate of the democrats, while former Gov. Black managed the campaign for the progressive democratic-republican ticket. Daniel E. Conway, the candidate for mayor, supported by ex-Gov. Black, was easily elected.

In Buffalo the entire republican city and county tickets were elected, Erasmus C. Knight, the state comptroller, being chosen mayor.

The result in Rochester was close, but Mayor Warner's friends claim the election of the republican candidate.

CROKER TAKES PHILOSOPHER.

People Wanted a Change, and Tammany House to That Will.

New York, Nov. 6.—At ten o'clock last night Richard Croker, after commenting on Mr. Shepard's defeat, said he could not describe it to any one. "The people wanted a change," said he, "and the organization bows to the will of the people. Tammany Hall has been in power for practically 17 years, and if any one party were to remain in control for too long a period the tendency would be toward a perpetuation of power, until the result would resemble a monarchy. Tammany has always profited by defeat and, I hope, will do so this time."

Mr. Croker said that all dissatisfied persons had voted against the democratic nominee, and that had contributed much to the result. Mr. Croker retired at midnight. Before going to his apartments he told some of his intimate friends that this campaign was the last he would personally conduct.

REPUBLICANS CARRY STATE.

Returns Show a Decided Majority in the Next Assembly.

New York, Nov. 6.—R. L. Fox, secretary of the republican state committee, at 12:30 a. m. to-day issued this statement:

"The republicans will have a decided majority in the next assembly. Returns received at republican state headquarters at midnight show that the republicans have elected 51 members in counties outside of Greater New York, with Rockland county and one district in Westchester not yet heard from. Outside of Greater New York, the democrats have elected only two members in Erie county, one in Greene, one in Schoharie and one in Yates. An independent has been chosen in Albany against Kelly, the regular democratic candidate. Returns from the districts in Greater New York indicated that the number of republicans there will be greater than it was last year."

Virginia Goes Democratic.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—Indications at ten o'clock are that the democratic state ticket is elected by 20,000 majority or more.

OHIO.

Republicans Surprised Themselves, and Everybody is Asking "What Did It?"

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—The republicans yesterday carried Ohio by such increased plurality on their state ticket and with such an enlarged majority in the legislature as to cause all sorts of comment on "What Did It?" The result continues the republicans in power in the state, making at epoch of 12 years in succession for that party in Ohio, and it insures the re-election of Senator Forsaker.

The extent of the republican success is attributed to the silver demerits not voting; to the attitude of John R. McLean, the democratic candidate for governor two years ago and the Ohio member of the democratic national committee, to the superior organization of the republicans, and other causes.

The republicans attribute the result largely to the popular desire not to disturb the prevailing property, in accordance with Senator Hanna's appeal to "let well enough alone;" to the desire to support President Roosevelt in carrying out the policies of the late President McKinley, and to the endorsement of Gov. Nash and Senator Forsaker.

Chairman Dick sent a messenger to Gov. Nash at the state house, and telegrams to Senator Forsaker at Cincinnati and Senator Hanna at Cleveland, congratulating them on these lines.

The republicans are so elated over their triumph that they are talking of Congressman Dick, who has been chairman of their state committee for 21 years, for governor two years hence, when Senator Hanna stands for re-election, and it is generally predicted that John R. McLean there will be the democratic candidate for senator.

It is believed that Hon. Charles W. Baker, of Cincinnati, who has been an avowed candidate against Mr. Forsaker, will receive the complimentary vote of the democratic minority in the present legislature for senator.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Crane Re-Elected by a Plurality Over Seventy Thousand—Boston Goes for Quincy.

Boston, Nov. 6.—W. Murray Crane of Dalton, republican, was re-elected governor of Massachusetts for the third time, yesterday, by a plurality of 70,408 over Joseph Quinn, the democratic candidate. The republicans also elected their entire state ticket and have the smallest loss of majority in the legislature of 1902.

Returns from every city and town in the state, with the exception of Dartmouth, give the republicans 185,500; Quincy, democrat, 115,570. Much interest in the returns centered in this city, which went for Quincy by almost 10,000, a little more than the republican estimate, and a little less than the democratic. The democrats also elected all their candidates for offices in Suffolk county by much larger margins than that given Mr. Quincy.

The legislature of 1902 will be strongly republican, although the democrats gained a few votes. Josiah Quincy, the democratic candidate for governor, has about 10,000 more votes cast for the party candidate in the presidential election, last year, but he so materially increased the democratic vote in Boston, to the local leaders great confidence for a party victory in the municipal election next month.

"Fine weather proved an excellent incentive for going to the polls, which probably accounted for the heavy vote cast in all districts. The election was remarkably quiet one, although there were one or two contests for state senators that aroused some interest."

IOWA.

With a Heavy Felling Off in the Vote, the Republican Majority the Largest Ever Given.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 6.—The result in Iowa is remarkable. With a marked falling off in the vote throughout the state, the loss in some precincts being forty and fifty per cent. in the total vote, and the average loss for the state being one-fifth of the total vote of two years ago, A. B. Cummins, the republican candidate, has been elected by a plurality of something like 90,000, the largest ever given a governor in this state.

The entire republican state ticket is elected by similar pluralities, and some extraordinary gains have been made. Chairman Spence, of the republican state central committee, said at midnight:

"We will carry the state by 90,000, and will make good gains in the legislature."

Providence, R. I., Nov. 5.—With nearly half the state in the state heard from, the republican plurality for the state ticket promises to run well over 5,000. This is a net loss of 2,500 from last year, due to the light vote. Seventy districts in the state out of 139 give Gregory (rep.) 10,133; Garvin (dem.) 6,172.

The general assembly will be republican strongly. Pawtucket and Woonsocket have elected democratic mayors, as has also Providence. In Newport and Central Falls the contest is close.

SUPPLIES FOR INSURGENT

Mostly Carried by Small Boats at Dark Nights—Capture of Lushan's Commissary.

Manila, Nov. 4.—Advice from Gat balaog, Samar, say it is well known that in spite of the fact that all ports of Samar are closed, supplies still reach the insurgents. That most of this work is done during dark nights by small boats from the island of Leyte. Every available gunboat is now on devotion to prevent this.

The capture of Lushan's commissary has proved a great blow to the insurgents, as it renders future supplies very precarious.

Conditions in the island of Leyte are very annoying to Gen. Smith. A large number of junks are used with the express object of aiding the insurgents in Samar, covering the movements of fugitives and landing provisions and clothing.

SCHLEY COURT OF INQUIRY.

Testimony All In, and the "Prosecution" Begins the Presentation of Its Case.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Schley court of inquiry reached the argument stage at the beginning of the afternoon session yesterday. The morning sitting was devoted to testimony to Admiral Schley and Capt. Sigbee in making corrections of their testimony, which had been given previously, and the introduction by Judge-Advocate Lemly of numerous documents bearing upon different phases of the inquiry.

The opening speech of the argument in the case was made in behalf of the government by Mr. E. P. Hanna, assistant to the judge advocate. He began his presentation of the case a few minutes after the court convened at two o'clock, and when the court adjourned two hours later he had not covered more than half of the ground involved in the controversy.

INDIANA'S CONTRIBUTION.

The Hoosiers Propose to be Prompt with Their Contribution to McKinley Memorial.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—It was planned, yesterday, at the governor's office, that Indiana's contribution to the McKinley memorial fund should be made within the next 90 days. Last week the governor appointed a committee, giving each congressional district representation. The first meeting was held yesterday forenoon. The governor, who was made permanent chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting. Senator Fairbanks will prepare an address that will be issued immediately to the people of the state, asking for contributions. It will be similar to the address sent out recently by the national commission, of which the senator is chairman.

GEN. FUNSTON MAY COME HOME

The Doughty Kansas Soldier Will Shortly Apply for Leave of Absence.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 5.—It is stated that Gen. Frederick Funston is about to apply for a leave of absence from the Philippines and return to the United States on a visit. It is said that he is recovering rapidly from the operation for appendicitis recently undergone at a Manila hospital. Gen. Fred D. Grant will, it is stated, likely succeed Gen. Funston in command of the San Fernando district.

Another Heir Presumptive.

Brussels, Nov. 4.—Princess Elizabeth, who was married October 2, 1900, to Prince Albert, heir presumptive to the throne of Belgium, yesterday gave birth to a son, who will be christened Leopold. In the course of the afternoon the king visited Prince Albert to congratulate him on the event, expressed his joy and promised to act as godfather.

Health Authorities Vigilant.

Washington, Nov. 4.—There were no advices, yesterday, to the Marine hospital service from its representatives in Liverpool or Glasgow regarding the bubonic plague. The officials will exert every effort to prevent the introduction of the plague into the United States, to which end there will be earnest co-operation between the national and state authorities.

Unsettled About Miss Stone.

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—Nothing is publicly known here, beyond what has already been cabled to the press, regarding the whereabouts and fate of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, or the progress of the negotiations for her ransom. In the absence of news, there is considerable disquiet.

The Captive Still Alive.

New York, Nov. 6.—A dispatch to the World from Samokov, Bulgaria, says: Miss Ellen M. Stone and Mrs. Talika have been seen within the last two days by emissaries sent by American Diplomatic Agent Dickinson from Sofia to treat with the brigands.

Costly Fire at Portland, Me.

Portland, Me., Nov. 6.—Fire on Commercial street destroyed the wholesale grocery store of the Millen Tomlinson Co., causing a loss estimated at nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

Receipts of Alaska Salmon.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Including the cargo of the schooner W. F. Jewett, which arrived Sunday, the total receipts of Alaska salmon this season amount to 1,397,723 cases and 12,293 barrels.

LIZZIE

A Story of the Sycamore Powder Mills.
BY "TIMMIE."

CHAPTER VII.

Several weeks had elapsed since Lizzie's return to the Sycamore Mills, and the pure country food and air had again painted her cheeks with a delicate flush of health—the golden days of glorious October were at hand and the autumn winds, laden with the scent of sweetgum and cedar sighed through the bending trees, carpeted the earth with vermillion-leaved leaves, through the half-opened buds the velvet skins of the chestnuts were gleaming, and the squirrels whisked busily about gathering their winter store.

One evening Lizzie wandered down to her favorite haunt, the old log by the spring. Sitting there she thought of the handsome young stranger who had only one year ago broken the monotony of her quiet life and caused her pulse to bound and her heart to quiver with the ecstasy of a first awakened love, and then in so short a time had utterly forgotten her and was to be married today to Jessie Maynard. The sound of a quick firm step on the leaves arrested her attention and looking up she saw Carrington coming toward her with outstretched hands and a happy smile lighting up his handsome face. On reaching Lizzie, and before she could prevent him, he clasped both of her hands in his and said:

"Little girl, one year ago this day you said if I was still of the same mind to come to the Sycamore Mills. My mind has never changed, my purpose has never wavered for one instant and I am here to claim my reward. To tell you I love you is unnecessary, as you know it only too well. Amid the whirl and excitement of a hurried city life your dear image and the remembrance of this quiet, restful, quaint old place have been ever present with me and I know of no sweeter joy nor higher form of bliss than to hear from those dear lips the words, 'I love you!'"

Lizzie, dazed by the suddenness of his unexpected appearance and unable to stop his impetuous words stood with a scornful, incredulous look in her wondering eyes until he finished speaking, then said:

"Mr. Carrington, you must be out of your mind. Wasn't you to marry my friend and schoolmate, Jessie Maynard today? What are you doing away from her? Why did you come here?"

To say Carrington was dumfounded would but feebly express his state of feeling.

"I to be married to Jessie Maynard!" he exclaimed, "why I never heard of her, I wouldn't marry any one in the whole round world but you, Lizzie. There is some terrible mistake; tell me why you thought I, of all men, was to be married to your friend, and let us see if I cannot assist you to clear up this mystery."

Lizzie then told him what had passed between her and Jessie Maynard and how she thought he was the Howell Carrington she had reference to. Although she struggled bravely to hide her emotion she could not prevent her voice from trembling nor the mist from gathering in her eyes, and she looked up shyly and said:

"So you were not the Carrington after all?"

"No, dearest one," he said as he took her tenderly in his arms and kissed her fair brow, "I am not. There may be dozens of Carringtons but there are none who could love any one so devoutly and tenderly as I do you." "Come, let's go to the house and see mother. You were always a great friend of her's."

"Yes, and she was always a very great friend of mine. I want to hear that dear old soul say, 'Well for the land's sake, you don't mean to say you want to marry Lizzie, do you? Why she's only a child yet; better wait a year or two.'"

"Yes, I am sure mother will think I am too young, and I think so, too."

"Oh no you are not, Lizzie; I can't wait another year. Won't you say two months?"

And so they compromised on two months.

In the drawing room of an elegantly furnished residence at 621 State street, Chicago, there hangs a costly picture of a young girl seated on a fallen log. In the background is a spring and some sumach bushes and Carrington never tires of showing this picture to his friends.

THE END.

women and Jews.

Jewels, candy, flowers, man—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often raised in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insidious consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boecher's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs, and drive out the dregs of the dread disease from the system. It is not a cure-all, but it is a certain cure for coughs, colds and all bronchial troubles. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at St. Bernard Drug Store.

Get Green's Special Almanac.

James J. Corbett has been up on supplementary proceedings in New York. In the course of his examination he said that he did not own any personal property, had no diamonds—he considered them vulgar—owned no real property and had no money. He was asked what he did with $24,000 which he obtained from the sale of certain property in which he was interested. He replied: "I live a pretty fast clip. I lived like a king. I gambled. I played the races. I entertained my friends. What's $24,000! I have spent ten times $24,000 in a short time. Why, $24,000 don't last me six months. It's a mere bagatelle to me." Can any one now question Mr. Corbett's right to the sobriquet of "Gentleman"?—Exchange.

Brain Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for the brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutrient is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few drops aid digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at St. Bernard Drug Store. Get Green's Special Almanac.

Fortune had some sport with Jasper McClure one day last week, says the Kentucky Standard. At dinner he found seven pearls in an oyster he was eating. A visit to a jeweler brought the information that each one would have been worth $5, if they had not been cooked." He also held the tie, let not the one that drew a $10 gold piece.

For Horsesmen.

Benj. Ferguson, of Hutton, Ind., says he had not spoken a word above a whisper for months, and one bottle of FOLLEY'S HONEY AND TAR restored his voice. Be sure you get Folley's. J. W. S. TAYLOR.

SAUCE FOR THE TURKEY

Now is the harvest time for the delicious fruit that adds so much to the turkey dinner. All along the Atlantic coast, where the cranberry vines run red, the pickers are at work, clawing, pulling and raking the berries from their stems. Already are the markets filled with barrels of this most appetizing of relishes.

While one unconsciously turns to Cape Cod when the word "cranberry" is used, the fact of the matter is that

A PAIR CRANBERRY PICKERS.

New Jersey is the state in which the cranberry industry had its beginning. Old John Webb of Ocean county was the originator of cranberry culture. He drained marsh lands, setting it out into cranberry bogs, despite the jeers of his neighbors, and vindicated his theory that cranberry growing could be made a profitable industry. Fifty dollars a barrel was what he got for his first crop, and the neighbors ceased to jeer. Instead they promptly followed his example.

The pine counties of southern New Jersey, Ocean, Burlington, Atlantic and, in a lesser degree, Cape May and Monmouth, are the home of the cranberry. At this time all the otherwise unemployed labor of the countryside in these districts is engaged in harvesting the crop. Laboring men, women and children and whole families of the "Piners," a class analogous to the "Crabs" of the south, are enlisted in the work. Carloads of pickers are brought down from the Italian quarters of New York and Philadelphia. Even tramps are pressed into service, and it is not an unusual thing for the charitable societies of the large cities of the state to furnish the wanderers with free transportation to the cranberry region.

A cranberry bog is generally six to ten rods square and is surrounded by ditches and dikes, so that it can be kept in the condition necessary for the welfare of the vines. When harvest time comes, lines are fastened to pegs in the ground, dividing the bog into rows or alleys five or six feet wide. Every picker is assigned his or her individual row, although in some districts the pickers work in couples for the sake of company.

Each person is provided with a "measure," a tin vessel holding exactly six quarts. With the measure between the knees or laid in a convenient position at one side the picker claws, rakes and scoops with fingers, deftly stripping the vines and throwing the berries into the measure. Of course leaves and twigs often find their way into the tin, to be removed later by a screening process. But it is not advisable to be too careless in picking, for there is always an oversight looking on, and negligence often results in the delinquent picker being forced to journey to another bog to find a new employer.

There is no doubt about the berry picking being hard on the hands. Some pickers the cotton around their fingers, others wear what are known as "finger stalls," but some wear nothing at all, and at night their poor finger ends are red, sore and aching and covered with "blisters." The whole work is done on the hands and knees, and on a busy day the scene on a berry bog reminds one irresistibly of antebellum days on a cotton plantation, though the overseer is only armed with "cuss words" instead of the long whip.

Each person carrying a full measure (no partial measure is counted) to the "house" or place of screening and packing receives a ticket. When a picker can show ten of these tickets, he exchanges them for a new ticket of ten times value and so on. As the season progresses the picker and his employer can thus quickly estimate how much he has earned.

Native pickers get 50 cents per bushel for picking. The Italians work by contract on the padrone system, live in little shanties by the side of the bogs, and their labor is considerably cheaper. Of course the earnings of the pickers vary with their experience. A smart picker can sometimes pick two measures to another's one. A new picker can scarcely earn more than 50 cents a day to start with and if he is wise will have provided himself with a couple of strong leather pads for his knees. But even with these the chances are that he will wake up next morning a stiffer and sorer than an army mule after a day's campaign.

The day's work begins at a very reasonable hour, 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., many of the toilers coming several miles to the bog after the morning housework is done. At noon all knock off for lunch, those who have brought their meals with them eating them on the bog, while the others go to some convenient house. Then, after an hour of rest, work is resumed to continue until about 5 in the afternoon.

On Cape Cod the berries are all gathered and shipped in barrels. The Jersey grower prefers crates. From the first of June until the harvest is over all the sawmills in the Jersey pine district are engaged in making these. All waste wood from building lumber can be used in their manufacture, and they are consequently cheaper than barrels. The making of these crates is in itself a profitable industry, for the men engaged on this work become remarkably expert and at the rate of a cent a box can earn from $4 to $6 a day.

One strange thing about the cranberry industry is that, although it is so extensive, it is not a very profitable one. The berries are sold at a very low price, and the cost of picking and harvesting is very high. The berries are sold at a very low price, and the cost of picking and harvesting is very high. ## "Human Hearts."

That great and beautiful drama, "Human Hearts," will be presented at Temple Theater, Tuesday, Nov. 12. "Human Hearts," a companion play to, but entirely different from, "Shore Acres," is regarded as one of the best American stage productions of the past ten years. When any play by a comparatively unknown author first merits attention enough to secure an opening and then goes on to the stage of the Fifth Avenue Theater and continues one whole season without cessation, it is a guarantee of its qualified power and its real merit as well, as the Fifth Avenue Theater clientele is one that will not tolerate even a tolerably good one for long. But let's be moral clean, in its scenes and situations not overdrawn, and in its character painting and dialogue true to nature in the absolute; then let it be enacted by only the masters of the dramatic art, and all New York will forsooth the house where "Shall" and comedy, say, even the lighter charming opera and modern English burlesque hold sway, to pay tribute to the work of any brainy author who, through the medium of the stage, holds up to them a true picture of American life. Such was the experience of "Human Hearts," and now in its fifth season, it comes to the Temple Theater. It should, and undoubtedly will, meet with the generous welcome that has ever been accorded it by the American people.

A Village Blacksmith Saved His Little Son's Life.

Mr. H. H. Black, the well-known village blacksmith at Grahamsville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son, five years old, has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by St. Bernard Drug Store, Earlinton, Ky.; Ben T. Robinson, Morgans Gap; Geo. King, St. Charles.

Literary Social.

The literary meeting of the Epworth League for this month was an unusually interesting one. The League members were entertained at the home of Misses Maggie and Laura Campbell Tuesday evening, having for a study "Alfred Tennyson and Works." All the members present took part, either with reviews, quotations or readings. Mrs. Y. Q. Walker gave the biography of his life, and "The Eagle Song" was rendered by a quartette.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Carrie Crenshaw and the subject will be "Songs and Their Authors."

Spreads Like Wildfire.

When things are "the best" they become "the best selling." Abraham Hare, a leading druggist, of Belleville, O., writes: "Electric Bitters are the best selling medicine I have handled in 20 years." You know why? Most diseases begin in disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, blood and nerves. Electric Bitters tones up the stomach, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, hence cures multitudes of maladies. It builds the entire system. Puts new life and vigor into any weak, run-down man or woman. Price, 50 cents. Sold at St. Bernard Drugstore.

Attorney Rayner, one of the counsel of Admiral Schley in the court of inquiry, was once interrupted by former Speaker Reed while making a speech in favor of a reduction of the tariff with the sea. "Did the gentleman hear my speech Saturday?" "No," replied Mr. Rayner, "I was at home preparing a speech of my own."

Astounding Discovery.

From Cooperstown, Mich., comes word of a wonderful discovery of a pleasant tasting liquid that when used before retiring by any one troubled with a bad cough always ensures a good night's rest. "It will soon cure the worst cough," writes Mrs. S. Himebarger, "for three generations of our family have used Dr. King's New Discovery. 'Did the gentleman hear my speech Saturday?' 'No,' replied Mr. Rayner, 'I was at home preparing a speech of my own.'"

A perfect laxative! That is the unanimous verdict of the people who use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. 50c and $1.00 sizes. Sold by Jno. X. Taylor.

The apple crop, which only a few weeks ago promised a sufficiency for home consumption, and to spare, is rotting rapidly on account of the very warm days of the past few weeks, says the Franklin Favorite, and it looks now as if the lovers of this splendid fruit will have to look elsewhere for their supplies.

Geo. A. Points, Upper Sandusky, N. Y., writes: "I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for hoarseness and find it the best remedy I ever tried. It stood the cough immediately and relieved all soreness." Take none but Foley's. Jno. X. TAYLOR.

New pecans are coming to market, and are selling from 9 to 12 cents per pound. The crop is said to be above the average this year.

PAUNCEFOTE IS READY.

Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, Calls Officially Upon Secretary Hay.

READY TO GO TO WORK ON NEW TREATY.

The Condition of the Convention is at Present Merely in the Form of Protocols, Which Will be Transferred Into the Form of a Formal Treaty Without Delay.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador, called upon Secretary Hay to announce formally to the secretary his return from a vacation in England and his readiness to undertake at once the conclusion of the new Hay-Pauncefote treaty. The interview lasted about half an hour. Many topics were touched upon besides the treaty, which was not given particular consideration, the conversation on that point being rather preliminary to the beginning of the treaty drafting. Lord Pauncefote did not bring with him to the state department a copy of the proposed convention. In fact, this document does not exist as such, for, although the principal points of the treaty have been agreed upon between the two principals, they have yet to be transferred from protocols into a formal treaty. This work of transference will begin in about a week, according to the present expectation, and if it proceeds steadily after that time, the new treaty will be in shape for submission to the senate immediately after that body convenes next month.

Lord Pauncefote did not bring to Secretary Hay any late news respecting the views of the British government as to the treaty. The secretary had been advised so fully by Ambassador Choate at their conference at New Haven of the details of what had been done in London, and the reports had been so complete that there was nothing new to be communicated on the subject.

THREE CONFIDENCE MEN.

Arrested at New Orleans Believed to be the Wagner (Mont.) Train Robbers.

New Orleans, Nov. 5.—Kid Wilson, Charles Holmes, Frank Smiley and Wm. E. McKernon were put under arrest here. Saturday night, charged with being confidence men. Yesterday the police received information that the men are the Wagner (Mont.) train robbers, who are known to have come south after committing their sensational crime. Affidavits have been made against the men. They will be held, awaiting further advice from Montana. Some of the money stolen in the robbery, it is thought has been put in circulation here.

COMPELLED TO DECLINE.

Courtesies that Would Have Been Very Agreeable Under Other Circumstances.

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 5.—In declining an invitation to visit Knoxville, Admiral Schley assigns this as his reason: "The fatigue incident to the prolonged sessions of the senate investigation has necessitated my taking a long rest, and I feel, therefore that I am compelled to decline courtesies that would have been very agreeable to me to accept under other circumstances."

Gov. Taft's Illness.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Secretary Root received a cable message yesterday, from Gov. Taft, saying that he had undergone the operation he had been told for about the time. He said the operation had been successful, and that his convalescence was progressing satisfactorily. During his disability, Judge Wright, who had been appointed vice-governor, will administer the civil affairs of the Philippine government.

Mrs. Roosevelt Indignant.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the president of the United States, is indignant at the impertinence of the press correspondent who, in an alleged interview, has been telling how economical the president's wife is in the matter of dress. The interview was a fake and the alleged information utterly at variance with the truth. Mrs. Roosevelt says her private affairs are her own.

King Edward's New Title.

London, Nov. 5.—King Edward, at a meeting of his privy council yesterday, signed the proclamation giving him his new title, as follows: "Edward the Seventh, by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British dominions beyond the sea, king, defender of the faith, and emperor of India."

Would Put with a Riot.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The last night of the Pan-American exposition witnessed a disgraceful riot, during which a mob wrecked Pabst's place, on the Midway, and destroyed 1,500 electric lights.

James P. Kennedy Dead.

Youngstown, O., Nov. 5.—James P. Kennedy, one of the organizers and a director of the American Bridge Co., died after a short illness. He was 39 years of age.

A DEED OF THANKSGIVING.

President Roosevelt Issues His First Proclamation Appointing a Day of Thanksgiving.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER TWENTY-EIGHT.

The President Says That, in Spite of the Recent National Sorrow, No People on Earth Have Such Abundant Cause for Thanksgiving as We.

Washington, Nov. 4.—President Roosevelt has appointed Thursday, November 28, as a day of national thanksgiving by proclamation as follows:

A Proclamation: The season is high when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the president appoints a day as the especial occasion for praise and thanksgiving to God.

This thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good president. We mourn President McKinley, who so loved and honored him; and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people a keen anxiety for the country, and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty which, as a nation, we have thus far safely trod.

Yet, in spite of this great disaster, it is nevertheless true that no people on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in our material, and have been able to work for our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual. Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us; and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which, on the earth and in the time, each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving, Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land the people cease from their wonted occupations, and that at their several homes and places of worship reverently thank the Giver of all good for the countless blessings of our annual life.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this second day of November in the year of our Lord One thousand nine hundred and one, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-sixth.

(Signed) "THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

By the President: John Hay, Secretary of State.

WAS A BLOODY ENGAGEMENT.

While the British Lost Heavily, the Boers Were Repulsed with Much Greater Loss.

Pretoria, Nov. 4.—Further details have been received regarding the attack by the Boers under Commandant-General Louis Botha last week upon Col. Benson's column near Bakenlaage, eastern Transvaal. It appears that Gen. Botha, who had been joined by a big commando aggregating a thousand men, attacked Col. Benson's rear guard, October 20, on the march, and captured two guns, but was unable to retain them. Col. Benson fell mortally wounded in the fight.

Maj. Woolf-Sampson took command, collected the convoy, and took up a position for defense about 500 yards from the intrenchment prepared by the Boers. The captured guns were so situated that neither side could touch them.

The Boers made desperate efforts to charge repeatedly right up to the British lines, and being driven back each time with heavy loss. The defense was stubbornly and successfully maintained through the whole of the following day and the succeeding night, until Col. Barter, who had about the night of Gen. Botha's Kop, brought relief in the morning of November 1. The Boers then retired. Their losses are estimated as between three hundred and four hundred.

Col. Benson did not long survive. Not only did Gen. Botha direct the attack, as already called, but he personally shared in the fighting.

Warned by Whitecaps.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Much excitement exists in the third district of Lake county, on account of whitecaps. Good substantial negro renters have been notified to gather their crops as soon as possible and leave. White men have also been notified to hasten the harvesting of cotton in order that the negroes may leave.

Killed His Man and Surrendered.

Armstrong, I. T., Nov. 5.—At Edgewood, Okla., Chas. Blanchard was shot and killed by F. M. White, a merchant of that place. White surrendered.

RHEUMATISM AND CATARRH CURED

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.
IN THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

A Whole Family Cured.
Mrs. C. H. Kingsbury, who keeps a millinery and fancy goods store at St. Louis, Gratiot Co., Minn., and who is well known throughout the country, says:

"I was badly troubled with rheumatism, catarrh and neuralgia. I had liver complaint and was very bilious. I was in a bad condition every day I began to fear that I should never be a well woman; that I should have to settle down into a chronic invalid, and live in the shadow of death. I had JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA recommended to me. I TOOK FOUR BOTTLES AND IT CURED ME, and cured my family both. I am very grateful that I heard of it. I would cheerfully recommend it to everybody. I have taken many kinds of medicine. I prefer JOHNSTON'S to all of them." MICHAEL DRUG CO., Detroit, Mich.

REMEMISCEMENT OF WAR.

Two of Quantrell's Lieutenants Meet After Many Years Separation.

NEWSY ITEMS FROM CRITTENDEN.

Iron Hill, Ky., November 4.—Mrs. Caroline Kemp of Tribune is the guest of friends and relatives of this community.

Mr. Joe and Dan Brown are preparing to have their coal veins opened up.

Joe Cardwell has opened up a new dry goods store at Shady Grove.

Ell Travis has returned from Missouri.

The protracted meeting at Sugar Grove has closed with good results.

While gathering apples last week Wesley Allen fell from the top of an apple tree. He was found under the tree unconscious and was bruised considerably.

Mrs. Catharine Crowell, an old woman, was buried at Shady Grove last week.

Wheat sowing is about through. A very good crop has been sown.

Mr. Elbert McConnell and Miss Alpha Towery were married at the home of the bride's father last Wednesday. A large supper was given the following night by W. L. McConnell, the bridegroom's father.

Mr. Hal Turner and Miss Susie Asher were united in marriage the same day at the home of her father in Shady Grove.

Oscar Leech killed three wild geese with a rifle on Tradewater last week.

Mr. Sol Hunt sold his farm and property a few weeks ago, and with his family went to Kansas to make it his future home. He has returned and says Kansas is not what people told him it was. He says old Kentucky is good enough for him.

J. N. Roberts and Rev. John A. Hunt spent Saturday night and Sunday at Quimby.

A protracted meeting is in progress at Shady Grove. Brothers Blackburn and Wallace are doing the preaching.

While attending the Mayfield Elks Carnival Capt. Henry of Repton was started by meeting up with his old friend, Col. Frank James. Mr. Henry walked up to James, covering part of his face with his hands to see if he would recognize him. But there was not a moment for Col. James in doing so, although they had not seen each other for thirty years. Capt. Henry was one of Quantrell's most daring lieutenants. Capt. Henry was in command of a raid on the Kentucky at Clifton, James being with him, when Henry was wounded five times, once right above the mouth, and the bullet hole is plainly seen now. He was captured there, after having lain on the battlefield for two days and a night, and was hauled 40 miles on a sled to near Bloomfield, in Nelson county. There he was rescued by James and Quantrell. After six weeks lying up Capt. Henry again took the saddle, and about the first day of service received his sixth wound, and was again captured and carried to Louisville and tried for his life, after remaining in prison twenty months. He was released, however, in the spring of 1896, and then went to Texas, but has been living at Repton for the past thirty years.

GRAPEVINE ITEMS.

The recent cold weather has at last checked vegetation somewhat. Elmo Martin, of Earle's, who has been in Cincinnati, for several months, visited here Saturday and Sunday.

Warren Lewis, of Fulton, stopped a few days in this vicinity on his return from a visit to his parents at Providence.

Thos. Kittinger and wife visited in Muhlenberg last week.

Misses Cora Hall, Mabel Rash and Catherine and Anna G. Tate, of Madisonville, visited Miss Mayme Todd Saturday.

The funeral of Mr. Thos. F. Wilson, which was conducted here by Prof. Thos. H. Smith last week was largely attended. Mr. Wilson was an old and respected citizen and had lived here the most of his life. He had been a successful farmer and had a host of friends. He leaves a wife and two sons.

Prof. H. Boring, last week, transferred his lot in the cemetery to R. M. Salmon, of Halesy, in consideration of $65. It occupies a prominent place in the cemetery.

Several nutting parties have passed here lately enroute to the Pond river flats. They report a good time, but not many nuts.

A few of the young people spent Halloween very pleasantly with Miss Willie Whitfield.

Dr. W. J. Lamb and family have moved to Madisonville where he will engage in the treatment of the eye, ear and throat.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.
Invariably cures any cold in 12 hours. It neither nauseates nor irritates. Price 25 cents.

NEPO NOTES.

The election is over, and now let those that have been engaged in lying and misrepresentation retire to their closets, fall on their knees and ask forgiveness, promising to sin no more until next election. We say to the defeated candidates, "We told you so."

Election passed off quietly, a full vote being polled.

The Nebo Lofing club has moved into winter quarters, and will have daily meetings around the stoves in the different stores. The application of J. A. Hill was handed in, and he was required to bring a letter of recommendation, when he would be received in full fellowship.

The handwagon put in its appearance according to appointment. After playing a few tunes the candidates spoke their little speeches, and all went home satisfied.

Prof. Ferguson's school went to the bottom Saturday to gather hickory nuts. They came back late in the afternoon with less than a gallon of nuts, a boy with a broken arm and a lot of torn dresses and all hands tired. Yet they had a good time, so they say.

A protracted meeting is in progress at Rose Creek, conducted by Rev. Woodruff.

Miss Ermine Ford is very sick with typhoid fever. Her condition is considered critical.

Herman Ford had the misfortune to get his arm broke while out on a nutting expedition.

Brother Story filled his regular appointment at the Christian church last Sunday. Owing to inclement weather the attendance was small.

A protracted meeting will begin at the M. E. Church next Thursday night, conducted by Brother Curry. McNary Hoffman, who is attending school at Hopkinsville, came home Saturday evening and spent Sunday with his parents, returning to school Monday morning.

A. M. Campbell and daughter, Miss Allie, went to Earlington Saturday to visit Miss Exell. They returned home Monday.

Richard Averitt, who has been on a prolonged visit in the far west, returned Monday, bringing with him many grizzly bear skins and other trophies of the chase. His many friends were all glad to see him and run over one another to hear the stories of his adventure.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.
Positively relieves the cough and cures the worst cold in 12 hours.

All Hallow'en.

Hallow'en was never more pleasantly or appropriately celebrated in our city than on last Thursday eve, when in glad acceptance of the invitations issued from the Mayor's hospitable home quite a number of young people gathered to spend these "witching hours" so full of mystery and prophecy.

At the front door the girls, and at the side door the gentlemen were met by silent white-robed figures and noisily ushered into the rooms softly lighted by Japanese lanterns.

The request, "Don't speak a word till the clock strikes nine," was modified and you might converse with your neighbor in whisper but nothing must break the silence until at the appointed hour a gong, struck by some unseen ghastly hand, released us from our bond and we were at once admitted into the brightly lighted rooms beyond where we might try our fortunes in any way for there were all the necessary "charms" and "potions" that had been supplied by the thoughtful hostess.

There was a search for apples, then the throwing of the peel brought to light many initials hitherto unknown to many of us, and one of the guests threw a perfect interrogation point.

After enjoying appropriate and delightful refreshments we sat once more in the dim firelight brightened occasionally as someone laid on their little bunch of "faggots" and told their ghost story while we waited for the witch to appear that we might receive our fortunes, which each found safely hidden in a nutshell.

The lights were turned up and each read about what the fates had prepared for them. All were pleasing—some amusing.

At a late hour the company separated with many expressions of delight at the pleasure that had been theirs.

Gone Back on 'Possum.

For something like forty years George Robinson, of this city, has yearned for 'possum, but he does not yearn now, nor will he yearn a single time for perhaps forty more, and this is how it happened: Last week he received an accepted a double and twisted invitation to attend a "possum supper" given in this place. Had the office of prime minister been suddenly conferred upon him he could not have been equally surprised nor more delighted.

In due time George presented himself and was accorded a seat of honor at the festive board, where he quickly disposed of a hinder limb of an adult marsupial accompanied by a full allowance of saccharine potatoes and 'possum gravy. He tarried long at the table and rendered even handed justice to everything set before him, especially the nocturnal animal and his environments.

At a late hour he returned home and sought his couch and fell asleep trying to figure out how much sincere undiluted happiness he had missed by not having 'possum every day of his past life. But, oh, alack, and alas, the short duration of mundane felicity. Scarcely had he fallen asleep when his surcharged stomach broke out into open rebellion and he awoke the sickest man in the state of Kentucky. Making a bee line for the front door he treated the front yard to an evenly spread coat of chewed 'possum. Reaching where he left off, he retraced his steps and added a second coat of sweet potatoes, allowing this a few moments to set, he tapped off with a dash of 'possum gravy. Thoroughly satisfied that he was out of material, he returned to his room and devoted two hours to the fruitless job of trying to die, but notwithstanding his heroic efforts in this direction it proved a flat-footed failure.

The scent of the 'possum on his hands made him leave and gas every time his fingers approached his face. He washed his hands with "Grandpa's soap," then with "Grandma's soap," then with soap that he inherited from his new and aunts, finally with soft soap and Gold Dust, but as the scent of the rose will cling to the shaven vase, even so did the smell of the 'possum cleave to his paws. Although he treated them to a thorough fumigation of burning rubber, he eats with arctic miteens and hopes to be able to pick his teeth next summer.

Morton's Gap.

Mrs. Geo. King, of St. Charles, visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. M. Kain and son Frank have returned from Louisville where they attended the Jennings-Finnigan wedding.

Mrs. Sara Rodgers of Cadiz has come to make her future home. Mrs. Sparkman of Nashville, visited her aunt, Mrs. Grasty, last week. Miss Ophelia Davis took her school children for an outing Saturday.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Otha O'Bryan on the 26th ult., a boy.

Hugh Grasty, who is working as a miner at New Empire, is feeling much better than he has for some time.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

[All communications in regard to this department should be addressed to THE BEE, Care of THE BEE, Earlington, Ky.]

Earlington, Ky., Nov. 4.
What do you think of a man who will lie in bed and snore every morning until breakfast is ready, and not get up and make a fire, or help his wife get breakfast?

DISHHEARTENED WIFE.
I think he should be awakened by passing your hand gently over his alabaster brow and told to arise and light the kitchen fire. If he does not get up for this, use harsher means, but see that he is thoroughly awake by all means. A man, unless he is a somnambulist, can't get up and make a fire and help get breakfast while he is asleep.

Earlington, Ky., Nov. 5.
Why do some girls go down to all of the passenger train?

HAIL, SPOON.
The passing of the passenger train is about the only thing that breaks the monotony of our quiet life and I suppose the girls like to look at the people on the train. Some of them probably have a husband, brother or a sweetheart who works on the train and they naturally desire to see them as much as possible.

Earlington, Ky., Nov. 5.
Why do boys want to kiss the girls good night every time they come to see them? KITTENHAMMER, P. S.—Answer correct.

It is the nature of the brute—he can't help it; although it is by no means right or proper. A girl should never let any boy kiss her until they are married; time enough then for kissing. Bear in mind, a boy always knows just what girl to ask for a kiss. There are some in this town he would not dare ask.

Russellville, Ky., Nov. 5.
Can a man be a christian and sell whisky?

JOLLY.
Not unless he is a druggist, and then only in case of sickness or when sold on a physician's prescription. It is utterly impossible for a saloon keeper to be a christianian.

For Malaria, Chills and Fever

THE BEST PRESCRIPTION IS
Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The formula is plainly printed on every bottle—hence you know just what you are taking when you take Grove's. Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called Tasteless Chill Tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.
